Laird Claims Budget Hike Possibility

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird says the administration's $71.8 billion Pentagon spending request is "such a rock bottom" budget that Congress likely will increase it.

His forecast brought an immediate reaction from some of the chief critics of increased defense spending. "Not if I have anything to do about it," said Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Budget Below Spending
The budget is some $5.2 billion under estimated spending this year—about the amount Congress cut in appropriating defense funds in 1969.

Laird predicted the increase Friday as he outlined Pentagon spending plans to a joint session of the Senate Armed Services Committee and the defense appropriations subcommittee.

He told senators that the request is so low that "the national security would be jeopardized by any further reductions."

Austere Budget
Chairman John C. Stennis, D-Miss., of the Armed Services Committee agreed with Laird that it was "a rather austere budget" and that "there has been a lot of the fat taken out of this thing already."

But Stennis also said that "there will be places where we can make reductions, no doubt."

Warning Under Fire
Laird warned that Russians are expanding their missile forces at a pace that could place the U.S. in a second-rate strategic position by the mid-1970s.

That argument came under fire from Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., like Fulbright a leading advocate of defense spending cuts.

"The most tragic mistake we could make would be to get into a contest with the Soviet Union where we insisted on being ahead on every single category of weapon," the Wisconsin Democrat said in a statement.

Laird's appearance formally launched this year's congressional deliberation of Pentagon spending.

Senate Kept Busy
Last year, consideration of the major defense authorization measure, the annual bill for research and procurement funds, occupied the Senate from early July until late September—one of the major reasons why the session ran almost until Christmas.

This year, committee aides have expressed hopes of getting the measure before the Senate by May as part of the plan for early adjournment before the November congressional elections.

ABA To Review Carswell Okay

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The American Bar Association's Federal Judiciary Committee reviews today its endorsement of Judge G. Harrold Carswell for the U.S. Supreme Court.

Bar leaders, including President Bernard G. Segal, said the re-examination does not suggest withdrawal or even uneasiness about the committee's early judgment that the appeals court judge is "qualified."

However, the ABA's Individual Rights and Responsibilities Section, the newest adjunct of the organization, recommended Friday that the review be a comprehensive one.

Also, Dean Lewis H. Pollak of Yale Law School, who testified against the nomination before the Senate Judiciary Committee, is understood to be taking the lead in questioning Carswell's professional qualifications.

The chairman of the judiciary committee, Lawrence E. Walsh of New York City, testified for Carswell and was among the bar leaders who said the review was routine.

In other action at the midwinter meeting of the bar association, and 12 related bar groups, the Individual Rights section decided Friday to have a committee investigate various aspects of the Chicago riot trial and to report at the section's next meeting in May.

Jerome J. Shestak, a Philadelphia attorney and the section chairman, said in an interview that he personally thought Judge Julius J. Hoffman behaved in an "unjudicious manner" at times, particularly in lecturing the seven defendants and the lawyers that the willingness of lawyers "to go beyond professional responsibility may account for a rise in crime."

Lost Washington Letter Turns Up
ST. LOUIS (AP) — A letter written by George Washington to his wife's brother-in-law has been found in the St. Louis Public Library after being lost for 30 years.

How the letter got into the library, or how it got lost, remains unexplained. Library employees found it framed between two pieces of glass when they were gathering material for the opening of a room for rare books.

The letter, written July 12, 1772, was addressed to Burwell Bassett of Virginia. He gave it to a Julia Hall, who mailed it to a cousin in St. Louis in 1894. The letter was once displayed on the desk of a head librarian who retired in 1938.

700 Officers Attend Rites For Policeman

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A policeman killed by a bomb planted at a police station was honored Friday at a Requiem High Mass attended by 1,000 persons, including 700 fellow officers.

As a precaution, police searched St. Agnes Roman Catholic Church for bombs shortly before the funeral began for Sgt. Brian V. McDonnell, 45, victim of a terrorist's time bomb.

No bombs were found in the church nor in the nearby Aptos Junior High School. A male voice had telephoned a bomb threat to the school principal about the time the services ended.

McDonnell was injured fatally and seven other officers were hurt Monday night when a steel pipe packed with black powder, bullets and steel fence staples exploded at the Park Station. One of the fence staples entered McDonnell's brain.

One of the officers remains hospitalized.

Meanwhile, contributions pushed the reward money for the capture and conviction of McDonnell's killers past $35,000.

MPSC Switches U.P. Phone Plan

LANSING (AP) — The Michigan Public Service Commission has revoked a previous order authorizing Drummond Island Telephone Co. to serve the Luce Community of Deer Park, because, it said, "the public interest will best be served" if the community were served by Munising Telephone Co. instead.

Deer Park is a resort community on the southern shore of Lake Superior. Area residents who have telephone service now are served on a limited station basis by Michigan Bell Telephone Co., which had asked for permission to discontinue the service.

Five leaders remained to talk to the governor's legal adviser and three state representatives about the political system and more specifically about the trial of the "Chicago 7." The conference was later adjourned until Monday.

The demonstration came in the aftermath of a student-police confrontation Thursday night during which 19 persons were arrested. Police said 17 of those arrested identified themselves as MSU students. The 19 were arraigned in East Lansing municipal court Friday.

Chunks of rock and metal were hurled at police Thursday night while demonstrators marched to the East Lansing city hall. One officer, who was hit at the base of his skull by a brick, remained at his home under observation Friday.

Health Center officials said there were at least 20 injuries as a result of the clashes Thursday.

Meanwhile, some 200 students at the University of Michigan demonstrated at the U of M administration building Friday where a meeting of the university's board of regents was being held.

The students, many of them black, demanded free tuition for all blacks and admission of black students in proportion to the Negro population of the state.

The demonstration ended peacefully.

License Plate Sale Extension Not Helping Much

LANSING (AP) — Extending the deadline for license plate sales apparently hasn't helped much.

Sales of 1970 plates are running 355,000 behind 1969 sales, says Secretary of State James M. Hare.

This year's deadline for buying new plates was extended to March 31.

Plenty Assignments

"I have maybe five assignments a week—sometimes three or four a day," she said in an interview Friday. "I just spoke to a conference in Georgia and, before that, a volunteer group in New York."

Slight and delicately pretty, the 60-year-old mother of four and grandmother of 13 has thick auburn hair and blue eyes which brighten as she warms to her subject.

One subject that sparks them is the role of women.

Confidence Needed

"Informed women have proved they can go any place they want, do anything they want. But we've got to be confident. If we just want to show a little more thigh or a little more bosom, we'll lose confidence because someone down the street is sure to have just a little bit more," she said.

"Women have been sold a bill of goods," she added. "They want to become small replicas of men instead of tremendous figures on their own."

Plenty Of Room

Her husband, Mrs. Romney asserted, gives her plenty of room to be a figure on her own.

"I have a remarkable husband. He tosses me ideas but he never tries to limit my own. He thinks women have brains. He gives me confidence. In all the times I've made speeches for him he's never said, 'Let me see what you're going to say.'"

Decision Due

Michigan Republicans choose three possible candidates today after they hear from Mrs. Romney and eight others who have expressed interest in running against Democratic incumbent Sen. Philip A. Hart.

A consensus candidate will be chosen from among the three at a later meeting.

Lenore Romney is believed to have the inside track.

A former college debater and movie starlet, Mrs. Romney has been meeting a speaking schedule that would do credit to a hard-nosed candidate.

County May Aid Airport Capital Outlay Funding

There is no "law" that prevents financial participation by Delta County in capital improvements at the Escanaba city airport, says City Manager George Harvey.

In a letter of information to the City Council, Harvey advises that he became concerned after a discussion with the Delta County Board of Supervisors when "we were also told that the county was unable to contribute to capital improvements under the law."

The county does make an appropriation toward airport operations and Harvey said it seemed illogical that the county could not also contribute for capital improvement.

No Such Law

"A thorough review of the law has been made and it has been found that contributions can come for both operation and capital outlay," Harvey reported to the City Council.

"The reason for the county not participating in capital outlay is the fact that in 1963 or 1964, a resolution adopted by the then County Board, earmarked any contributions from the county for operating only, so that is a matter of board resolution, not law."

The discussion between the city and the county on airport matters followed an inquiry by the County Board on airport operations, with the supervisors indicating the county should have more say in operations matters.

The proposal that an airport authority be established was explored and Harvey notes that "full authority for the operation carries full responsibility, and without responsibility, one cannot have authority."

Hangar Project

"In other words, to embrace county people in the policy or decision making means assumption of responsibility."

The county's decision not to become responsible for capital improvement of the airport would, it may be assumed, remove the County Board from a position of authority over the airport's operation.

The City of Escanaba meanwhile is continuing to seek financing for the construction of a 14 T-hangers at the airport. The City Council Thursday night extended consideration of two bids — Roy Ness and Engineer Buildings — for a period of 60 days. The bids still under consideration were in the $60,000 range. The other 15 bids received have been rejected.

Before a decision can be reached on whether to proceed with the construction of the 14 T-hangers, it is necessary for the city to come up with the necessary financing, said Harvey. An effort is being made to obtain assistance from state and federal fund sources.

Firm Purchases Hancock Hotel

HANCOCK (AP) — The Hotel Scott in Hancock has been purchased from Suomi College by the Hancock Hardware Co.

A college spokesman called the exchange "one of the largest real estate sales in the Hancock area's history" but the purchase price was not disclosed.

The hotel was built in 1902. Dr. and Mrs. Henry Winkler donated it to the college in April, 1969, and it was used primarily as a dormitory.

John L. Manderfield, manager of the hardware company, said he plans extensive remodeling and that the main floor of the four-story structure would become the main section of the retail hardware business. He said the second story would be used for storage and repair.

Grant Okayed

LANSING (AP) — Gov. William Milliken has announced approval of a more than $1.6 million economic opportunity grant to the Detroit Mayor's Committee for Human Resources Development. Funds are for a comprehensive health services program to reach some 15,000 poor in Detroit target areas, the governor said. The program, run on a family basis, will provide preventive, curative and rehabilitative health care covering a wide range of medical services, he said.

Medicare Cost Going Up For Elderly Patient

Persons with Medicare coverage who enter a hospital this year will notice a change in the amount they must pay the hospital, according to Arnold T. Williams, social security district manager in Escanaba.

This year, the Medicare patient will have to pay the first $52 of the bill, an increase over the first $44 in effect last year. Then Medicare pays 60 days in full. After that, the patient must again participate and pay $13 a day for the 61st through the 90th day as his share of the hospital bill, an increase from the $11 a day in effect last year.

High quality medical care costs more these days, Williams said, and both the patient and Medicare must pay more for it.

Blue & Gold Scout Banquet

A slide show of the 1969 National Jamboree in Idaho highlighted Cub Scout Pack 405's recent Blue & Gold Banquet at the Soo Hill School. Glenn Tollefson made the excellent presentation.

The dinner meeting was attended by Dave McCleod, district scout executive, who gave the blessing and a short talk to the crowd of nearly 100 persons.

Scouts in the Pack set up a display table of projects and held an impressive candle ceremony during the awards presentation.

The Pack announced that the annual Derby would be held at the Pack's next meeting on March 9.

Munising Bay Pollution Cited

MUNISING — Munising Bay is being polluted in several areas by municipal operations.

City Manager McCauley Gosney has notified the Munising City Commission Wednesday that effluent from the city's septic system and from the sewage treatment plant is draining into the bay.

Mayor Henry St. Amour also reported that the dumping of snow by the Public Works Department was polluting the bay.

Gosney expressed grave concern over the situation and said steps would be taken immediately to correct the matter.

Reflectorized License Plate Material Bought

LANSING (AP) — Michigan has purchased the materials for 1971 license plates — maroon with a white shiny legend, reports the director of the State Administration Department.

Reflectorization of the plates caused much legislative concern after Sen. Harry DeMaso, R-Battle Creek, criticized plans to put beading on the legend. He said the Legislature had intended to reflectorize the backgrounds of the plates.

The Senate, however, rejected a plan to put off reflectorization for one year, and the beading plans were carried out.

Administration chief George Washington said Friday that materials are to be delivered the first week of March to the Michigan State Industries at the State Prison of Southern Michigan.

Beading material, he said, would be supplied by the Flex-O-Lite Sales Corp. of St. Louis. Washington said the 1971 plates will cost 14.5 cents per plate to make. He compared that price — for each of 10.25 million plates — with the price of this year's gold-and-white plates, which were 12.5 cents apiece.

Medals Awarded

THE SILVER STAR MEDAL for gallantry in action and other honors have been awarded posthumously to Army Pfc. Richard K. Lewis of Escanaba, who was killed August 2, 1969, while a machine gunner on a combat operation in Vietnam. Pfc. Lewis was cited for his gallantry, courage and bravery displayed when his unit encountered heavy enemy fire. Although wounded, he disregarded his own safety to aid his trapped comrades until wounded again, resulting in his death. In addition to the Silver Star, he was awarded the Bronze Star, Purple Heart, Good Conduct Medal, Vietnam Campaign Ribbon, Combat Infantryman's Badge, Expert Badge with Automatic Rifle Bar, and Sharpshooter Badge with Rifle Bar. Mrs. Patricia L. Lewis of Gladstone, right, accepted the awards on behalf of her husband from Capt. Charles A. Matrosic, left, of the Army ROTC Department at Michigan Technological University in a ceremony in the home of Lewis' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Lewis, center, of Escanaba.

GM To Use Tough Line In Next Negotiations

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (AP) — Chairman James M. Roche of General Motors Corp. laid down a tough line for upcoming auto labor negotiations today, saying what he termed "a national cost crisis must be dealt with" in new contracts.

"We must restore the balance that has been lost between wages and productivity," Roche said in apparent direct reply to a long list of goals announced earlier this week by Walter P. Reuther's United Auto Workers Union.

Fringes Costly

In a speech prepared for delivery at ceremonies marking the 50th anniversary of GM in St. Louis, Roche said "No longer can we measure cost increases for labor by the hourly wage scale alone—without consideration of what has become a major cost item—the fringes."

Besides a substantial wage increase, a year-end bonus and unlimited cost-of-living increases, the UAW indicated it will seek higher pensions, earlier retirement, longer vacations and broader insurance coverage in its fringe benefits package.

Current three-year contracts between the Big Three — GM, Ford and Chrysler—expire Sept. 14.

Guidelines Set

"The (government's wage-price) guidelines of a few years back, for all their recognized inequities, did have one important advantage," Roche said. "They reminded both labor and management that only as we improve the efficiency of an hour's labor can we prudently increase the wage which that labor has earned."

Pointing out that new contracts are to be negotiated for some five million workers in the railroad, trucking, rubber, meat and auto industries this year, Roche said "in the terms of these agreements will be written much of our national future for the '70s and beyond."

Compensation Higher

Citing figures from the U.S. Bureau of Labor Statistics, Roche said the average productivity of an industrial worker increased nine per cent between 1965 and 1969, while average total compensation for each worker climbed 25 per cent. He gave no figure on the productivity gain in GM plants.

Other Fringe Benefits

At General Motors he said hourly wage costs — including overtime, shift premiums and cost-of-living allowances — increased 55 per cent from 1959 to 1969.

"In addition," he continued, "the hourly cost of items such as vacations, paid absences and holidays increased 120 per cent. But the cost of fringe benefits such as pensions and insurance increased over 230 per cent."

"We have been able to recover only a fraction of our recent higher costs through greater efficiency, only another fraction through price increases."

He pointed out the costs of metals used in making cars and other materials have been increasing in cost.

While GM showed a 1969 profit of $1.7 billion, Roche said that was only about seven per cent of sales of $24.3 billion, and that in 1964 the company had earned about $25 million more on a sales volume $7 billion less than 1969's.

Bill To Save Lake Shores Introduced

LANSING (AP)—A bill aimed at preserving "thousands of miles of Great Lakes shorelands" is being introduced in the Michigan House.

"High water levels on the Great Lakes are threatening thousands of lakeshore homes and cottages," said Rep. Dennis O. Cawthorne, R-Manistee, sponsor of the bill.

"Property damage may even exceed the $20 million loss Michigan suffered in the early 1950s," he said.

To combat the problem, Cawthorne proposed that the state undertake engineering studies of the shorelands to determine present and potential erosion areas and recommend the most suitable installation for their protection.

"The Department of Natural Resources would also undertake environmental studies as a first step toward ensuring the protection of fish and wildlife habitats in the shoreland areas," he said.

"Local governments would then be encouraged to enact appropriate zoning laws for the protection of these areas."

If local governments did not act within three years, Cawthorne said, the department could enact land use regulations designed to protect selected areas from erosion and environmental damage.

Meanwhile, the chairman of the House Elections Committee noted an "avalanche of bills" introduced each year in the Legislature and said he would try once again to limit the number of proposals a lawmaker may make.

Rep. Alfred Sheridan, D-Taylor, failed in a similar move last year, when the House rejected his proposal 55-45, one vote short of the total needed for passage.

Sheridan introduced a bill Friday that would limit to 10 the number of bills any legislator may propose. His previous bill would have set the limit at seven for each representative and 21 per senator. Some 2,940 bills were introduced in the Michigan Legislature last year, Sheridan said, and only 346 were signed into law. "By cutting the number of bills in each House, we could get better consideration of those bills that are introduced," he contended.

"We must consider the skyrocketing costs of printing these bills, which alone will cost the Michigan House and Senate approximately one-quarter million dollars," Sheridan said. "We should take a better look at our method of introducing bills," he added, noting that the cost of printing a one-page bill is about $29.

A Republican representative said he would offer a bill to provide stiff penalties for "one of the more brazen methods of auto theft"—taking a car for a "demonstration" ride and keeping going.

"For vehicles valued under $100, this would be a misdemeanor violation," said Rep. Michael Dively of Traverse City. "However, for vehicles worth more than $100, it would be a felony, punishable by up to two years in jail or a fine of up to $1,000 or both."

New Commercial Fish Plan Irks Area Fishermen

By ED BARKER
Herald-Leader Staff Writer

MENOMINEE—Senator Joseph Mack of the 38th District will meet with the Menominee County Fishermen's Association, in Menominee the afternoon of March 6 through the efforts of Roy Jensen, Escanaba, secretary of the Michigan Fish Producers Association.

Expected to attend the meeting along with Mack and Jensen will be officers of the local commercial fishermen's organization who are Dave Behrend, president, Virgil Allgeyer, vice president and Axel Strand, secretary, treasurer.

An invitation will be extended to Lud Frankenberg, Department of Natural Resources fish biologist for this area, Oscar Sundquist, chief of law enforcement for District I of the DNR, both of Crystal Falls.

Only Two Licensed

Frankenberg and Sundquist were present at a recent meeting of the Menominee County Fishermen's Association which was held in the Ingallston Township Hall.

Thirty-two fishermen attended the meeting—of this number a half dozen or so were from Wisconsin—there because at some time or other they fished Michigan waters.

It was brought out early in the meeting that only two licenses had been issued in the Menominee area.

Summing up the vicious circle it means that if fisherman started out with a commercial license, then the DNR took away the gill net, leaving the pound net, and with that you then either catch fish that have to be thrown back or fish that nobody will buy or worse you don't catch anything and so work for nothing.

Wisconsin License?

All this work fails to qualify a fisherman for next year's license. So the small or part time commercial fisherman is forced to lay up his gear or get a license in Wisconsin, which many have suggested they will do.

As could be expected, the questions eventually got around to the coho salmon program which started the DNR on their program to reduce the number of commercial fishermen.

The first question that arose was "were the sports fishermen of Menominee really interested in coho?" It seems that even though there was a great deal of publicity about coho being present off Menominee few fishermen took advantage of the fact and the few that did got nothing.

Frankenberg said the coho program is very new here and the men have not learned what type of gear to use.

Coho and DDT

A fisherman suggested that it would be a good thing if the DNR did approve the harvest of the lake trout, because if the lake trout were not taken while small they would not be edible because of DDT concentrations.

The fisherman went on to say this is something the DNR does not mention, but the DDT concentrations in lake trout, because of their long lives is greater than that of the coho, which is causing all the fuss with the Federal Food and Drug administration.

Frankenberg agreed that a 25 inch coho and 25 inch lake trout would have about the same amounts of DDT in their fat. Whitefish according to Frankenberg do not have any large concentrations of DDT. Because of pollution though, the levels of DDT in all fish is building up, and mostly in the predator fish like salmon and trout he said.

Muffler Cross Marking Grave Of Buried Car

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP)—A cross made of rusted automobile mufflers marks the grave of a brand new car, buried in ceremonies climaxed San Jose State College's weeklong anti-pollution festival, "Survival Faire."

The car, bought with $2,500 collected by students, was buried Friday eight feet deep in a lawn between the Music Building and the cafeteria.

Its steering column was locked and an alarm buzzer was attached to deter anyone from trying to exhume it.

Members of the Black Students Union, carrying signs saying "Ecology Is Not the Issue" and "Don't Bury the Car, Bury the System," demonstrated against the burial.

Several BSU members rode atop the hood of the yellow Ford Maverick during a 20-block funeral procession and slightly dented the hood.

A cheer went up as the car, which had been pushed along the funeral route, rolled into a pit dug in advance by a contractor with heavy equipment. Shovels flashed as speeches started.

Local car dealers had criticized the burial of a new car, pointing out that older cars emit five times as many polluting hydrocarbons.

Why bury a new car? "We wanted to shake up Detroit," said Mark Tigan, a pre-law student who co-ordinated the festival. "An old car wouldn't make such an impact."

Builders Advised On FHA Program

The U.S. Department of Agriculture today announced start of a conditional commitment program that will permit it to finance small subdivision-type housing developments in the national's small towns.

Previously, the Department's Farmers Home Administration could finance the building of the new homes only on a single-unit-at-a-time basis.

The conditional commitment does not reserve funds for a loan nor does it provide for construction financing.

The agency will require builders to submit plans, specifications, proposed selling price and other information related to proposed construction at the time of application. Locally, information may be obtained from George Ruby, county supervisor, Farmers Home Administration, 2013 1st Ave. S., Escanaba.

Counties, Cities Get Road Funds

Motor Vehicle Highway Fund collections for the fourth quarter of 1969 are being distributed to Michigan counties, cities, and villages, the Department of State Highways said today.

Net receipts in October, November and December were $88.2 million, up 2.5 per cent from the fourth quarter of 1968. The highway fund is made up of state gasoline taxes and motor vehicle license plate fees paid by motorists.

After deduction of Department of State collection costs and 1.5 per cent for the State Waterways Commission, 46 per cent goes to the Highway Department, 34 per cent to the counties and 20 per cent to the state's 528 incorporated cities and villages.

Under this formula, the Highway Department received $40.59 million, the counties $30 million (including $854,695 in snow removal payments for the winter of 1968-69) and the cities and villages $17.64 million.

Allotments to counties in this section of the Upper Peninsula include:

Delta — $197,769, Alger — $97,895, Dickinson — $147,498, Luce — $87,138, Mackinac — $115,528, Menominee — $205,695, Schoolcraft — $96,620.

Cities and villages include:

Daggett — $2,345, Escanaba — $50,117, Garden — $1,822, Gladstone — $19,752, Manistique — $14,939, Marquette — $58,269, Munising — $13,885, Newberry — $8,976, Powers — $2,354.

McLain Case

Denny McLain, the highest paid pilot on the roster of a major league baseball team, the man with the biggest mouth in the City of Detroit, the best pitcher in all of major league baseball for the past two years is in trouble. Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn has ordered the Tiger star suspended indefinitely from organized baseball because of certain "off the field" activities of McLain in 1967.

It is the first suspension of any magnitude in baseball since Leo Durocher got the ax in 1947, but if allegations of Sports Illustrated and other published and broadcast reports are even partially true McLain will have made the biggest mistake since eight members of the 1919 Chicago White Sox were involved in a "fix" of the World Series to the Cincinnati Reds.

That Chicago team has been called "The Black Sox" ever since.

Dennis Dale McLain may go down in history as the major league flyer who took the biggest dive in the history of the game — from 55 victories in two seasons to the permanent bleachers.

If McLain misses the 1970 season, the Tigers can forget about entertaining any thoughts about regaining the World Championship they won in 1968. A pitcher like McLain has been, particularly in the past two seasons, cannot be replaced overnight.

Mayo Smith, the Tiger manager, put it simply:

"Where are we going to pick up 24 games (the number McLain won last year)?" he asked.

Sports Illustrated, the national sports weekly magazine which really blew the lid off the story this week, said "Poor, dumb Denny..."

Yet, if McLain was stupid in getting involved, and there is little question he was involved with gamblers and gambling in some way although baseball officials have said that many of the things Sports Illustrated printed will eventually be disproven, then perhaps the Tiger organization and even some of McLain's teammates are partially to blame, too.

The Tigers didn't get McLain into trouble, but they must have had some indication that their star performer had problems. The Tigers have been sending his checks to a Detroit bank to pay off a loan and there has been plenty of publicity on his financial troubles and the obvious question is "How can a man who earns $100,000 a year playing baseball and another $100,000 a year playing the organ and in other personal appearances be so far in debt?"

For baseball, for the Tigers and for Denny McLain, the sports world can only hope that Denny's involvement isn't as serious as it appears.

If it is, the words of the late Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, the commissioner who suspended the eight Chicago White Sox players involved in the World Series scandal, despite the fact that they had been acquitted by a jury in court, still apply.

"Regardless of the verdict of juries, no player who throws a ball game, no player that undertakes or promises to throw a ball game, no player that sits in conference with a bunch of crooked players and gamblers where the ways and means of throwing a game are discussed and does not promptly tell his club about it, will ever play professional baseball."

Although Commissioner Kuhn said McLain's activities in no way affected the outcome of any baseball games, his decision to suspend the pitcher "pending the completion of my review of the situation" was the only decision he could make.

The Right Battle

By vetoing the $19.7 billion welfare appropriations bill, President Nixon is fighting the right battle at the right time.

No other issue is of graver concern to the American people at the moment than inflation. And nothing does more to increase the cost of living than for Congress to spend more than it collects in revenue.

President Nixon has correctly pinpointed the relationship between deficit financing, a prevalent practice in recent years, and increases in living costs. In his State of the Union message, the President told Congress:

"In the decade of the '60s the federal government spent $57 billion more than it took in in taxes.

"In the same decade the American people paid the bill for that deficit in price increases which raised the cost of living for the average family of four by $200 a month.

"Millions of Americans are forced to go into debt today," he continued, "because the federal government decided to go into debt yesterday. We must balance our federal budget so that American families will have a better chance to balance their family budgets."

The President thus put into simple language a point that is not widely enough understood. When Congress spends more than it collects in taxes, the difference is made up through inflation.

Hence inflation is in truth a hidden tax which no one escapes paying.

The $19.7 billion welfare appropriations bill, substantially higher than the level of spending proposed by the White House, threatened to throw the federal budget out of balance. Recognizing this, President Nixon vetoed it in keeping with his pledge to fight inflation.

Peninsula Potpourri

Taxpayers in three of the four townships on the east side of Iron County who voted in special elections approved a proposal that they provide financial assistance to the Crystal Falls Community Hospital expansion project. The proposal, under which one tax mill is to be raised annually for 10 years if needed for hospital purposes, was passed in Crystal Falls, Hematite and Mansfield Townships by substantial margins, but defeated by 16 votes in Mastodon Township.

Analysis Of The News:

Artrain May Stimulate U.P. Interest In Art

By JEAN WORTH
Of Panax Newspapers

When the Michigan Council for the Arts announced that it would send its Artrain to the Upper Peninsula next summer and asked "maximum security" policing for the exhibit, a U.P. friend of art cheered the project, but said that the precautions were unnecessary.

He suggested that the Pontiac is in much greater peril of theft in the Upper Peninsula than a Picasso, and not just because the former are so much more numerous. (Actually, there probably isn't an original Picasso in the U.P., although prints of his paintings abound.)

Mrs. William G. Milliken, wife of the governor, is chairman of the Artrain project and it may be the most stimulating thing ever sent above the Straits to promote interest in the arts. People will turn out to see a stream train these days without art aboard, and this one is going to be loaded.

It won't, however, offer "pretty pictures" or "instant culture." The Artrain will project the arts as an influence on values in living, and it will exhibit in the larger U.P. cities along with the works of artists of the area.

New Program

The Artrain, the coming visit of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra to Upper Peninsula cities and the creation of 20 "Art Centers" throughout Michigan (including four in the Upper Peninsula at Sault Ste. Marie, Escanaba, Marquette and Houghton-Hancock) are parts of an ambitious new program of the Michigan State Council for the Arts and its companion group, the Michigan Foundation for the Arts.

Purpose of the State Council, as defined by its former chairman, Durward Varner, former chancellor of Oakland University, is "to improve the quality of life for all the citizens of the state." This workshipped view of art invites the interest of many persons, some of whom may have looked on it as an idle time interest of women.

The state's increased interest in support of the arts coincides with a similar effort on the part of the federal government.

Federal Money Asked

President Nixon has asked $40 million in federal funds for support of the arts in the next fiscal year. Most of it would go to symphony orchestras in the first year, but contributions to the states for their art support programs would be increased from $36,000 to $72,000 each. The idea in both cases is not to have government take the place of private financing of the arts, but to assume a larger supportive role, especially educationally.

The program is designed to increase public awareness of quality in living and how it may be enriched by the contributions of the arts to our culture, in the sense that culture is the sum total of living and the quality upon which future generations will judge the excellence of today's society.

Concern for the environment, for the design of buildings, the beauty of the countryside, are as much a part of it as the performing arts, or paintings.

Building Spree

America has been on a great building spree in the arts in recent years, but it has not given as much attention to providing ing the companies and the financing for the performances as it has to the construction of the theaters and opera houses, the concert halls and art galleries. Result: many of them are in financial difficulties.

Some artists are making more money than artists ever made before, but many of them are poor. Most of the national growth in the performing arts has been in amateur efforts, and while commentators on American culture say they're fine, they add that they should complement the nation's professional core of creative activity and not replace it. There were only 17 plays on Broadway at the beginning of the year, compared to 29 a year ago. Four times as many plays were produced on Broadway 40 years ago as are being produced today.

Television Cheaper

Technical advances have crippled the performing arts as live presentations. The legitimate theater never recovered from talking movies and now the movies themselves are in trouble because television comes

State May Ask For Medicaid Contract Bids

LANSING (AP) — Michigan's $35 million-a-year Medicaid contract may be up for grabs by mid-spring, despite changes now being made on the one held by Blue Shield, says the State Social Services Director.

R. Bernard Houston said this week that bids on the contract would be let on completion of a $300,000 management consultant study of the Medicaid program. "That means an entirely new contract," he said.

State Budget Director Glenn S. Allen Jr. would neither confirm nor deny Houston's assessment of the situation. "Let's wait until the study is over," he said.

Houston said the consultants expect to complete their study by mid-April. It will include "a system not only for payments, but a medical utilization review, quality control—all of the things that assure some type of public accountability," said the director who has expressed great dissatisfaction with Blue Shield's handling of Medicaid.

"At that point we'll put out the bids," he added.

Houston met Thursday with Allen to go over language the state will ask Blue Shield to add to the current contract. "But this amendment is just to get information badly needed right now," Houston said.

Allen met with Blue Shield President John McCabe last week and later announced agreement to spell out what new information the agency would provide for the state.

It included data on how Blue Shield decides what doctors will be paid for Medicaid services; guards against duplicate billings by doctors; handles cases which it believes might be fraudulent.

right into the home — and it's cheaper. Live performers can do little to increase their productivity and so tickets become more expensive and fewer of them are sold. People are spending less on the performing arts than they used to.

In this situation it may be said: "So what? We've changed with the times and with technology; you can't stop progress!" But the artists ask: "It is progress? Essentially, art is quality and much of our electronic culture is shoddy."

Through federal, state and foundation subsidies and the co-operation of many groups, the Upper Peninsula is going to have several cultural infusions this year. They are intended to make the residents of this most beautiful part of Michigan more conscious of its beauty and of the desirability of protecting it and making it more influential as a life force. They will suggest that the arts can enrich even the commonplace of living.

Councils Organized

The Arts Councils which have been organized in the Upper Peninsula at Iron Mountain, Ironwood and Sault Ste. Marie and those being organized in Delta, Menominee and Marquette counties will sponsor the Artrain and the other cultural projects of the State Council for the Arts in the U.P.

The councils are coordinating cultural activities in their areas and giving the strength of their total memberships to the individual projects of their member groups, like the dramatic players, the musical organizations, the painters, the camera clubs, the sculptors and weavers, the dance groups and others.

Opening lead—two of clubs. This hand from a team of four match demonstrates how a defender can sometimes play upon declarer's fears to bring about his defeat.

At both tables, South was declarer at three notrump. At the first table, West led a club and East made the fine defensive play of the queen instead of the ace.

South was obliged to win this because West might have had A-J--x-x, in which case South would never make a club trick if he ducked.

Declarer finessed the jack of spades at trick two, losing to the queen. East returned the ace and another club, permitting West to cash the J-8 and bring the defenders to four tricks.

South later took a diamond finesse, which lost, and went down one. Had East played the ace of clubs at trick one, South would have made the contract by ducking the club return and later taking finesesses in both spades and diamonds.

At the second table, a similar result was achieved, but in a different way. West chose the four of diamonds as his opening lead and East won with the king.

East saw no future in diamonds, so he shifted to a club. However, he was careful to lead the queen, reasoning that this play would be effective if West had either the king or jack.

At this table, also, declarer covered with the king because by doing so he could guarantee a club trick, whereas he would look very silly if he ducked and West had the A-J-x or A-J-x-x. When the king held, declarer tried the spade finesse, which lost, and the ace and another club by East sent him down to defeat.

Both Easts thus succeeded in misleading South as to the location of the ace of clubs and thereby sank a contract that would surely have been made against less resourceful defense.

Letters

LETTER FRAUD

The Escanaba Daily Press in its "Letters to the Press" column on the editorial page of last Wednesday's edition published a letter signed by a Mrs. Merrill Schieler about her experiences with two vacuum salesmen. The letter was critical of a sales method allegedly used by the salesmen.

The signature on the letter, however, apparently is a fraud and as such the Escanaba Daily Press regrets publication of the letter as a legitimate citizen comment. The newspaper has been unable to locate a Mrs. Merrill Schieler anywhere in the Escanaba area and the rural post office box number listed in the return address is that of another family. When contacted, they denied any knowledge of the letter or person in question.

In addition, the newspaper discovered in its files a second letter believed to have been written by the same person, but signed Roger Hartman, Rte. 2, Cornell. Published last Sept. 20, the letter dealt with construction of a new kraft mill by the Mead Corp. The newspaper has been unable to locate Mr. Hartman.

The Escanaba Daily Press encourages communications from local residents with comments on local situations and issues. It is the policy of the newspaper, however, that such letters be signed by the writer with name and address and that such name and address be included with the letter at the time of publication. The newspaper further reserves the right to abridge any or all letters or to reject them entirely for publication. Under no circumstances are unsigned letters published.

The newspaper apologizes for the two letters which were published under fraudulent names.

Ann Landers

Foreign Secretary 'Gums Up' Night Out

Dear Ann Landers: I had a date the other night with a girl who has done secretarial work in foreign countries. Pearl is bright and attractive. I liked her very much until she did something that shocked me.

Last night we went to dinner in a chic little cafe. I ordered expensive wine because I wanted to make an impression. When the food arrived, Pearl took a wad of gum out of her mouth and stuck it behind her ear. My jaw must have dropped because she asked, "What's the matter?" I told her I was surprised to see her do that. She replied: "It's an old Chinese custom. I learned it in Hong Kong. The most elegant women do it. I prefer it to putting the gum on the wrist, as they do in Japan."

Have you ever heard of these customs? I'm flabbergasted.—Chapel Hill, N.C.

Dear Chap: She's putting you on. It's a childish hang up and an indelicate one to say the least. If she does it again, tell her the depression is over and hand her a nickel for a whole new package.

Dear Ann Landers: Here's one for the fellows who responded in praise of Miss Ice Cube—the man who married the girl who said NO.

One must not generalize where females are concerned. Many girls will have an affair or two—before marriage. This doesn't mean they are tramps. Some girls go to bed with every guy who asks—for a variety of reasons. Most of them are professional virgins—dames who come so close to having total sex that it makes no sense not to. These hypocrites are a dying breed, I'm happy to say.

It's a well known secret that a girl CAN fake it and a fellow can be fooled. So—unless you marry someone straight from the cradle, boys, chances are that all you got was the crate the fruit came in.—Just Human

Dear Just: And now in anticipation of the thousands of letters from readers who will ask if there is any sure way to ascertain virginity—the answer is NO. So save your stamps, kiddies.

Dear Ann Landers: We are very friendly with another couple. We have dinner together, play cards, go to movies and sport events as a foursome.

The other gal is up at the crack of dawn. She has her housework done before most people have breakfast. Then she races around all day—doing errands, shopping and visiting. By evening she is worn out. More than once she has fallen asleep in the middle of a card game. We've had to wake her up to take her out of a movie. One night she fell asleep during a baseball game and started to snore.

Please print this letter and wake her up.—Grand Rapids

Dear Grand: If your friend hadn't had a checkup recently, suggest it. Maybe she has narcolepsy. If the doc says she's in good health, plan earlier evenings. If that fails, your only solution is to substitute this couple with two nocturnal (night people). This gal is definitely diurnal and can't be changed.

Ann Landers' best selling book, "Truth Is Stranger," a collection of her best columns over the past 14 years is available in paperback by Bantam for 95¢—wherever paperbacks are sold.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed and stamped envelope.

'Student Prince' Hats Ruled Out At White House

WASHINGTON (AP) — White House police no longer will wear the "Student Prince" style ceremonial hats that drew scores of ribbings when they were introduced last month.

"The reason is that a number of the officers complained that the hats were not comfortable," a White House spokesman said Thursday. The criticisms had nothing to do with the change, he added.

The double-breasted, cream-colored ceremonial tunics will remain, but the stiff, high-peaked caps will go, he said. For ceremonial occasions the White House police will slip a white cover over their regular police officer's hats and wear them with the tunics.

MD Collections Slated Thursday

Volunteers will be calling on Manistique households on Thursday, Feb. 26 seeking contributions to the Muscular Dystrophy Fund. Co-chairmen Mrs. J. P. Quirk and Mrs. Edward Mathson ask that residents give generously.

There are more than 200,000 victims of this mysterious, crippling disease in the United States, two-thirds of whom are children between the ages of three and 13.

A disease of obscure origin, Muscular Dystrophy can strike anyone regardless of age or sex. As yet, no cure or effective treatment has been found. A cruel and relentless malady, it does not halt with the initial crippling of its victims. The disease follows a progressive course of muscle destruction until even a minor ailment, like a cold, may be fatal.

DEVASTATING MINISKIRTS

PRETORIA, South Africa (AP) — Lay preacher Gert Yssel, chairman of South Africa's anti-mini league, has prophesied doom and divine wrath ever since local girls hoisted their hemlines. The drought he predicted failed to materialize. Instead, months later, western Cape Province was rocked by an earthquake which killed nine people and caused millions of dollars damage. Yssel immediately issued a statement blaming miniskirts for the disaster and called for a country-wide day of atonement for "all the sins of the nation."

WHAT'S A BIRTHDAY

without a splendid cake? This holiday cake has an orange flavor and orange frosting and is filled with a tasty cream based on maraschino cherries.

A birthday with out a birthday cake would be a scandal. It's a happy idea to celebrate Washington's Birthday, Feb. 22 with a splendid cake and glasses of Colonial Punch. The Father of Our Country deserves nothing but the best as a birthday salute . . . and that's just what we've dreamed up.

Begin with packaged white cake mix . . . and reserve the frills for the filling and frosting. Into the cake mix goes grated orange rind to add flavor and texture interest. Bake two layers, split them, and fill with a delectable cream based on softened cream cheese, orange juice and grated rind, flaked coconut, and chopped maraschino cherries. The latter, of course, reminds us of the famous tree the child chopped down with his little hatchet. We've always wondered why he didn't just climb the tree and pluck the fruit . . . but that's not a thought to dwell on.

With the cake, a mellow hot

Colonial Punch that combines orange juice, cran-apple juice cocktail, cinnamon and cloves. Hot fruit punches have been an American tradition since Washington was a lad and they're most welcome on a cold winter night. For grownups so inclined, a lacing of rum is also traditional.

The cake and punch combination is so delicious it will turn up for other birthdays, too. Children will especially enjoy the orange-flavored cake and it does splendidly for the youngsters' birthday parties, topped with the usual salutations and wish candles. So happy birthday, George . . . and others!

$18 All-Game State License Proposed

LANSING (AP) — Dedicated sportsmen who hunt, fish and trap across the spectrum of Michigan wildlife could do so under one license if the Senate approves a bill passed by the House.

The special "sportsman's" license would allow a Michigan resident to hunt deer, bear, small game and wildfowl, trap all legal species of mammals but beaver and otter, as well as fish for salmon and trout—all by paying a single, $18-fee.

House OKs Bill

A bill passed Friday by the House, would become effective next Sept. 1, if adopted by the Senate and signed by Gov. William G. Milliken.

The total cost of separate licenses for all of those outdoor activities is $26.70 annually, according to State Natural Resources Department Officials.

Other States Cited

Adoption of the single-license program—sportsmen still could buy separate, regular ones for varying time periods — would add Michigan to the ranks of a few states with similar all-purpose permits.

State Planning Distribution Of Highway Funds

LANSING (AP) — The State Highway department reports highway fund collections totaling more than $88.2 million currently are being distributed to counties, cities and villages.

The fourth quarter collections in 1969 were up 2.5 per cent from the same months the previous year.

The fund comes from state gasoline taxes and motor vehicle license plate fees.

After deductions for collection costs and 1.5 per cent for the State Waterways Commission, 46 per cent will go to the Highway Department, 34 per cent to the counties and 20 per cent to the state's 528 incorporated cities and villages.

Under this formula, the Highway Department will receive $40.59 million, the counties $30 million, including $854,695 for snow removal payments, and the cities and villages $17.64 million.

Counties receiving more than $1 million include: Genesee, $1.13 million; Kent, $1.2 million; Macomb, $1.2 million; Oakland, $2.03 million and Wayne, $5.4 million.

Detroit is the only city over the $1 million mark with a total of $4.87 million.

Chrysler Tells Of Big Losses

DETROIT (AP)—Chrysler Corp., which lost $4.4 million in the final quarter of 1969, said today it expects to lose between $10 million and $40 million in the first quarter of 1970.

The statement was made in a prospectus announcing the proposed sale of $200 million in notes and debenture bonds.

In 1969, Chrysler had net earnings of $88.8 million, or $1.87 per share of common stock, down from a record of $290.7 million, or $6.23 a share, in 1968.

Chrysler blamed the continuing loss on decreased sales, increased costs and high interest rates.

On Jan. 27, Chrysler announced a debt financing program to increase working capital and retire some debt currently in the form of commercial paper.

The prospectus outlines an issue of $100 million in five-year notes and $100 million in 25-year sinking-fund debentures.

Chrysler said its working capital in 1969 fell by $250.1 million, more than offsetting an increase of $243.2 million in 1968. Main components in the decline were reduced earnings and proceeds from long-term borrowing and increased expenditures for property, plant and equipment.

Chrysler said it hopes to have the bonds and notes ready for public sale the week of March 9, pending approval by the SEC. Tentative delivery date is March 24.

The offering is being underwritten by a group of investment banking firms headed by The First Boston Corp., Lazard Freres & Co. and Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith Inc.

The notes, which will mature in 1975, are nonredeemable for the life of the issue.

The bonds are nonrefundable issue. Beginning in 1981, they will receive an annual sinking fund payment of $6.5 million with a final payment of $9 million at maturity in 1990.

The firm said application would be made to list both the notes and bonds on the New York Stock Exchange.

JOSH WHITE JR. will appear at the Escanaba Area High School on Wednesday, Feb. 25, at 8 p. m. White is primarily a folk singer, but he also infuses comedy sketches into his act. This entertaining style has caused critics to describe White as a combination of Bill Cosby and Joan Baez. In addition to appearing on several television variety and talk shows, Josh White Jr. has performed concerts at over 500 colleges and universities.

Field To Meet Hart Dwindles

LANSING (AP)—The field of possible candidates for the Republican nomination for U.S. Senate to oppose Philip A. Hart, the Democratic, two-term incumbent, was to be narrowed to three today.

Some 355 delegates to the Republican leadership meeting vote for three possibilities, after the aspirants make 12 minute speeches each this afternoon.

The balloting was not expected to be completed until late this afternoon.

Top two favorites to survive are Mrs. Lenore Romney, wife of former Gov. George Romney, the present secretary of housing and urban development, and U.S. Rep. Donald W. Riegle Jr. of Flint.

Seen as a strong dark horse to remain in the running is Deane Baker of Ann Arbor, a Detroit construction executive.

As the elimination contest started, there were 10 names in the running.

Baker lost in a similar consensus selection in 1966 that produced Robert P. Griffin as the party's choice to run for the Senate.

Friday night was devoted mostly to social affairs and wheeling and dealing as Republican leaders tried to make up their minds.

Gov. William Milliken had to excuse himself for a while to speak at a dinner at Ludington. Mrs. Milliken helped out by serving tea to some of the women precinct workers at their home.

The Republicans gathered early Friday for an organizational seminar on such topics as voter registration drives, how to attract new people to the party and tips on county and district organization.

The party workers relaxed in the evening at a Hawaiian luau where some guests wore mums and flowered shirts.

The Flint Journal said Friday that Rep. Riegle reported the White House had informed him it is adopting a "hands-off attitude" and would not try to influence selection of a "consensus" Republican candidate.

"It is my understanding," Riegle was quoted as saying, "the White House will support any candidate chosen."

Blues Notch 3-1 Victory

OAKLAND (AP)—It took St. Louis center Red Berenson just two minutes to cool off the red-hot Oakland Seals Friday night.

The Seals were tied 1-1 with the Blues and were trying to extend their undefeated streak to four games when Berenson burst the bubble with two tallies in the third period, giving St. Louis a 3-1 victory in the night's only National Hockey League game.

Oakland winds up a five-game home stand tonight against Pittsburgh, tied for second in the NHL West with Philadelphia.

The loss was Oakland's fourth to the Blues in five games against the West Division leaders this season.

Berenson got his game-winning at 10:14 of the final period when the Seals were short-handed, cracking a 25-foot screened shot past goalie Gary Smith on a power play.

At 12:16, Berenson grabbed his 26th goal of the season on a breakaway.

The Seals had tallied first on left wingman Gary Jarrett's ninth goal of the season in the first period.

The Blues began their rally with right wingman Gary Sabourin's 30-foot slapshot at 8:25 of the second period, tying the score.

Ranks Of ROTC Infiltrated By University Coed

KALAMAZOO (AP)—Blame it upon a military ancestor if you will or put it down to curiosity—but a girl has infiltrated the ranks of Western Michigan University's ROTC unit.

Deborah Sue Shinaver, a freshman from the Eaton County town of Dimondale, is the first and so far the only coed drilling with the ROTC cadets.

"I wanted to see what it was like," she explained when asked about her reasons for joining a traditionally male outfit. And, the coed noted that she needed two more credits for the winter quarter with only military science courses available.

Miss Shinaver, who said she is a great-great-great-great niece of the Union Civil War general, William Tecumseh Sherman, reported she isn't looking forward to rifle drills and has already ruled out a military career.

She wants to teach the physically handicapped eventually but for now there is a WAC uniform among the more customary Army green on Western's drill fields.

Wings Announce Deal With Kings

DETROIT (AP)—The Detroit Red Wings announced a three-for-three trade Friday with the Los Angeles Kings, making it the second three-for-three National Hockey League trade by the Kings in one day.

The Red Wings acquired two defensemen, Dale Rolfe and Larry Johnston, and a forward, Gary Croteau. They sent forward Garry Monahan and defensemen Matt Ravlich and Brian Gibbons to the Kings.

Earlier the Kings sent goalie Gerry Desjardins, defenseman Bill White and forward Brian Campbell to Chicago in exchange for goalie Denis DeJordy and forwards Gilles Marotte and Jim Stanfield.

Auto Production Surging Forward

DETROIT (AP)—U.S. auto production surged upward as the auto industry scheduled 164,857 new cars for assembly this week, compared to 95,433 last week.

However, the total is short of the 175,211 new cars produced in the same week last year, reported the trade publication Automotive News.

The increase ended a two-week decline by the Big Three automakers, climaxed by General Motors Corp. last week when it had 96,000 workers idled at 16 plants in the United States and Canada.

All the GM plants resumed production Monday. The reduced schedules were done to bring new car inventories into line.

Domestic automakers have constructed 995,423 new cars for the calendar year, compared to 1,377,135 so far last year.

Ex-Mayor Fails To Overturn Tax Invasion Counts

CINCINNATI (AP)—Former Detroit Mayor Louis C. Miriani lost a bid Friday to have the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals here overturn his conviction on four counts of income tax evasion.

Judges Henry Brooks of Louisville, Ky.; Paul Weick of Akron, Ohio; and Bert Combs of Lexington, Ky.; ruled that Miriani had received a fair trial in the U.S. District Court.

He was convicted by jury of attempting to evade and defeat a large part of his federal income tax—about $163,000 from 1959 to 1962 and was sentenced to one year and one day in prison.

He served as mayor from 1956 to 1961.

Books Seized

BENTON HARBOR (AP)—Police in Benton Harbor confiscated about 100 books and magazines in a raid on a downtown bookstore Friday afternoon.

A clerk in the store was charged with sale of obscene material, a misdemeanor. The store had opened for the first time Friday morning.

Evans Breaks Track Record

SAN DIEGO (AP)—Lee Evans annexed the world's 500-yard run record, then turned quickly to thoughts of Martin McGrady in his last effort at 600 yards.

Evans wiped out the pending record of Villanova's Larry Jones by nine-tenths of a second at 54.5 Friday night at San Diego's indoor games.

"I've been saying that this is my last year," said Evans, 22, formerly of San Jose State. "I've been setting goals. Getting the 500-yard record was one of those."

"I think I can run faster than I did tonight," he said. He added that he can cover 600 yards faster than McGrady.

Evans, Olympic champion at 400 meters, will get the chance next week in New York at the National AAU meet. McGrady has beaten Evans three times while winning 26 of his last 28 outings.

The 9,200 fans at the International Sports Arena also cheered Juris Luzins in an American record 2:05.6 in the 1,000-yard run, only a tick off Ralph Doubell's world record.

Luzins, from William and Mary, erased the record of 2:07.1 set by Tom Von Ruden at the New York Millrose games last Jan. 30.

Shaggy Trackmen Irk State Coaches

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—the California Coaches Association, contending that excessively long hair "connotes femininity," has intervened in a federal court case involving four shaggy high school trackmen.

The association filed a brief Friday as a "friend of the court."

U.S. Dist. Judge George B. Harris, who has temporarily restored the four youths to the track team of Redwood High School in Larkspur, gave them until March 3 to reply to the coaches' brief.

The four plaintiffs, all runners, were dismissed from the team Jan. 19 after the district school board voted 3-2 in favor of the short hair, short sideburns rule of Athletic Director Robert Troppman.

Supported by their parents—the four, Kevin Pusser, 17, his brother, Brian, 15, Dave Silverman, 16, and Bryan Tracy, 14—filed suit contending their constitutional freedoms were violated.

McLain Hopes To Be Back In Baseball This Season

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — "I believe and hope to God I'll be back in baseball this year," suspended Detroit pitcher Denny McLain said, adding he would like to see his Tiger teammates who started spring baseball training across town Friday.

McLain spoke in front of his Lakeland home one day after Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn suspended the 25-year-old All-Star hurler indefinitely for what Kuhn called "involvement in 1967 bookmaking activities."

"If the ballplayers want to talk to me, I sure would like to talk to them, but Jim Campbell (Detroit general manager) hasn't said anything about their wanting to see me," he said.

In a taped television interview with WTWT, Tampa, Fla., McLain also said he could not go into much detail about the suspension "because I'm under supervision by Commissioner Kuhn's office."

"One of these days, I hope people will find out what this is all about," McLain added, noting he has received "a tremendous amount of telegrams giving me their support."

"I've got to look for a job. I've got a home to pay for and a family to feed," McLain said. He added he would either have to "get back into baseball" or he'll have to go on the nightclub circuit again. McLain has appeared in several clubs, performing on the organ and singing.

Further troubles beset the McLain family Friday, when a suburban Detroit judge ordered the McLains to be evicted from their home near Detroit unless they pay $2,400 in back rent within 20 days.

Earlier, the two-time Cy Young award winner said in a copyrighted interview with the Detroit News that he feels he will be reinstated within a month.

McLain also said "I'm very sorry, I caused a lot of people a lot of embarrassment—not only my wife, Sharyn, but my father-in-law, (Baseball Hall of Famer Lou Boudreau), and my mother."

McLain said he's "embarrassed baseball to a certain extent. I'm asking the benefit of the doubt. I apologize to the commissioner and I'm sorry anything like this has had to happen."

He said about Kuhn's treatment that "I can't see any other alternative for him to take."

The rightshander, who won 55 games in the last two American League seasons, said in referring to his financial problems that "contrary to belief, 99 per cent of my problems stem from business. I made a lot of lousy investments."

Also Friday, it was revealed in Flint, Mich., that five persons, one of whom McLain has been accused of associating with in 1967, have been subpoenaed to testify next Wednesday before a federal grand jury investigating organized crime in Detroit.

Agent Jack Duval of the Flint Office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation said subpoenas were served Thursday on:

—George "Jiggs" Gazell, who has been denied a partner with McLain in an alleged bookmaking operation.

—Clyde Roberts, an employee of the Shorthorn Steakhouse, whose management has denied reports that the reputed bookmaking operation was based at the restaurant.

—Lawrence Tamblin, manager of a branch bank across the street from the Shorthorn and whose bank is suing McLain and another man for recovery of $7,000 on a promissory note.

—James Johnson, former operator of a gasoline service station near the Shorthorn.

—Joseph Shaheen, a Flint businessman indicted Tuesday on five counts of Grand Jury contempt in an investigation of alleged irregularities in public housing and other local government operations in Flint.

Kuhn said McLain was suspended "from all organized baseball activities pending the completion of my review of the situation" regarding McLain's "involvement in 1967 bookmaking activities and his associations at that time."

Kuhn also said his action was "based substantially on certain admission made candidly to me by Mr. McLain and not on allegations contained in a recent magazine article, many of which I believe to be unfounded."

Earlier Kuhn had said McLain's being called upon the carpet did not involve "the playing or outcome of baseball games."

McLain appeared voluntarily for 45 minutes earlier this week before the Federal Grand Jury in Detroit which is investigating an alleged national sports betting operation. Under grand jury rules his testimony is secret.

Walker, Pistons Upend Baltimore

By The Associated Press

Jimmy Walker scored a game-high 31 points and fed Dave Bing for what proved to be the winning layup as the Detroit Pistons nipped the Baltimore Bullets 122-119 in a National Basketball Association game.

Bing's layup gave the Pistons a 121-115 lead with a minute and a half to play.

In other NBA action, Los Angeles beat Milwaukee 119-114, Chicago topped Philadelphia 126-119, Phoenix downed San Diego 126-117, and Boston rallied to shade Seattle 127-125.

The Bullets led 63-58 at the halftime but were outscored by Detroit 39-25 in the third period with Walker hitting 11 points and Bing and Terry Dischinger adding nine apiece. The Pistons led 94-87 after three periods.

Detroit kept a similar advantage early in the final period until Howie Komives hit two foul shots for a 106-98 lead after he got into a scrap with Baltimore's Jack Martin.

The Bullets played the game under protest after referee Jerry Lober called the two-shot fighting foul on Martin.

Kevin Loughery, who paced the Bullets with 28 points led, a Baltimore final-period comeback that saw the deficit cut to 117-115 with about three minutes left.

Phoenix remained two percentage points ahead of the fourth-place Bulls in the battle for Western Division playoff spots by beating San Diego despite a 40-point burst by Elvin Hayes. Gail Goodrich topped the Suns with 23.

Down by 12 points after three quarters Boston came from behind to beat the Supersonics at Seattle. A jump shot by Veteran Don Nelson with 19 seconds left won for the Celtics.

Nelson's winning basket claimed a Boston surge that saw the Celtics overcome a 10-point deficit at 120-110 in the last four minutes. They had trailed by 74-69 at halftime and 104-92 after three periods.

Nelson took game-scoring honors with 36 points, 15 of them in the come-from-behind last quarter. Bob Rule was high for Seattle with 27 points, but scored only two free throws in last quarter.

Dave Hill, Al Geiberger and Al Balding were in a large group at 142 along with Earl Jacobsen, course superintendent at the 7,138 yard Pecan Valley Golf Club, who had a sparkling 66.

The cut for the final two rounds was 148, eight strokes over par. Among the casualties were New Zealand left-hander Bob Charles.

U.S. Open champion Orville Moody, Lee Trevino and Bruce 147. Defending champion Deane Beman just made it into the final two rounds at 148. Frank Beard, last year's leading money winner, was at 144.

Cerrudo, a 25-year old from Napa, Calif., had five birdies and not a single bogey in his steady round. But he pointed to an 18 foot putt on the fourth as the big shot.

"I hit a bad iron off the tee, and a bad second shot," he said. "It hit a tree and was far to the left. I pitched on, about 18 feet, and made the putt for a par. It kind of kept the momentum going."

Cerrudo ran in a 25-footer on the next hole for a birdie.

He put a four iron four feet from the flag on the first hole, wedged to within eight feet on the 10th, chipped to one foot on the 13th and put a nine iron five feet away on the final hole, making all the putts for birds.

"The putting was the key," said Cerrudo, whose only tour victory came in the Cajun Classic in 1968, his rookie year. "I really didn't hit the ball that well, but I kept knocking those long putts up there for gimmes."

Walker, Pistons Upend Baltimore

But Walker made a jump shot for 118-115 and then fed Bing for the layup and the game.

Jerry West banged in 37 points and Mel Counts added 22 as the Lakers were too hot for Milwaukee's Lew Alcindor to handle.

The victory brought the Lakers within two games of first place Atlanta in the NBA's Western Division.

Trailing 64-54 at halftime, the injury-plagued Lakers outscored Milwaukee 21-5 in the first seven minutes of the second half and went on to snap the visitors' winning streak at four games.

Alcindor led the Bucks with 31 points.

In the American Basketball Association, Dallas defeated Kentucky 142-138, Carolina 101-90, and Washington beat Los Angeles 123-118.

Bob Love hit 10 of 14 shots from the floor in the second half as Chicago subdued the 76ers. Limited to six points in the first half, he finished with 29, including the Bulls' first eight in the final quarter. Chet Walker was high for the winners with 32 and Billy Cunningham had 26 for Philadelphia.

Few Tax Changes Affect '69 Returns

DETROIT — Receipts of individual tax returns are down 9 per cent from last year, Internal Revenue Service said today. Only 8.1 million Federal income tax returns had been filed by mid-February.

Many taxpayers appear to be needlessly delaying their refunds by waiting for additional instructions on the new tax law. Most of the changes made by the Tax Reform Act of 1969 relate to 1970 and later years, and affect only a small percentage of individual income tax returns for 1969, IRS said.

Expenses Involved

Changes affecting returns for 1969 that must be filed by April 15 involve living expenses paid by insurance as a result of home damage or destruction; sales of collections of letters, memos, etc.; gains from certain installment sales; depreciation and amortization; and investment credit.

Under the new law, a taxpayer whose home is damaged by storm, fire or other casualty does not have to pay tax on the insurance proceeds he receives for temporary living expenses. The amount not subject to tax is limited to actual expenses that are over and above normal living expenses.

Gains from sales made by a taxpayer after July 25, 1969 of collections of letters and documents that were created by or for him will be taxed as ordinary income rather than capital gains.

Property Sales

Sales of real property and casual sales of personal property made after May 27, 1969, for a price of more than $1,000 are subject to new rules in cases when the seller reports his gain in installments extending over two or more years.

The investment credit in most cases ended April 18, 1969, the IRS said. However, the investment credit is available for property bought, built, or rebuilt under a binding contract entered into before April 19, 1969, or in certain other transitional situations.

The use of accelerated depreciation of real property acquired after July 24, 1969 has been limited, but a 60-month write-off of air or water pollution control facilities has been added for 1969 returns. Taxpayers concerned with these matters for their 1969 returns may find it helpful to obtain a new publication — "Highlights Of 1969 Changes In The Tax Law" IRS Publication No. 553—available free from IRS District offices.

All other taxpayers can get their refunds faster by filing now, before the last-minute rush, the IRS said.

Accidental Death Rate Soars In '69

NEW YORK — Accidents caused an estimated 116,000 deaths in 1969, or approximately 1,000 more than in 1968, according to statisticians. The provisional death rate in the year just ended was virtually the same as in 1968, when the figure was 57.5 per 100,000 population.

An increase in the death toll from motor vehicle accidents was in large part responsible for the rise in the loss of life from accidents during 1969.

Motor vehicle fatalities increased by somewhat over 1,000 to 56,500 in 1969, a new high. Preliminary data indicate, however, that motor vehicle deaths rose less than the volume of travel. This produced a slightly lower death rate per 100 million vehicle miles traveled than the 5.5 recorded in 1968—the third successive decline in this annual figure.

Public accidents other than those involving motor vehicles also figured prominently in the rise in the death toll from all accidents combined, with an increase to 21,500—about 1,000 over the figure for the previous year.

The number of job-related fatalities in 1969 was approximately 14,500, or about the same as in the previous year; about 3,300 of these deaths are included in the estimate of 56,500 motor vehicle fatalities mentioned above.

The toll from injuries in and about the home declined to about 27,000, or by approximately 1,500 from the 1968 total.

Statisticians point out that effective in 1968 a revision was made in the official method of classification of the International List of Causes of Death (Eighth Revision). The figures for that year and 1969 are not strictly comparable with those for earlier years.

It is believed that the 1969 and 1968 estimated figures are somewhat higher than they will be when the official totals are published by the National Center for Health Statistics.
